Most doctors will be working Thursday, Friday

Although it is not known how many doctors throughout Ontario will go on some form of strike tomorrow and Friday, a sampling of general practitioners in Haliburton County shows that most will stay on the job.

The strike has been called by the Ontario Medical Association (OMA) to protest the introduction of Bill 94 by the coalition government of Ontario. The bill, if passed, will ban the extra-billing of patients by their doctors in the province.

Both Minden's two doctors, Dr. Jeffrey Lodenquai and Dr. Antony Holliday-Rhodes, told The Times that they do not agree with the OMA's protest.

"I will be working," explained Dr. Lodenquai. In giving reasons, he cited the small size of Minden and the fact that a strike action would be "unfair" to residents.

Dr. Holliday-Rhodes was equally adamant about staying at work. "I don't agree with the protest of the OMA," he said. "I put medicine as a vocation first, and if other doctors put money first, they should put that money into other sorts of business."

Since he does not extra-bill, Dr. Holliday-Rhodes was unable to see the benefit of participating in the strike: "I would not go on strike unless it were to gain something."

Although none of the three doctors at the Family Medical Centre in Haliburton village were available for comment, the receptionist confirmed that Drs. Heyes, Hartwick and Stokes will conduct business as usual tomorrow and Friday.

One local doctor explained that only twelve per cent of doctors in Ontario currently extra-bill. Yet no doctors in Haliburton County are included in that group, according to recent

County council endorses major revisions to welfare system

It took ten years of discussion, but County Council finally decided at last Wednesday's meeting that Haliburton County will take over the job of administering welfare from the municipalities. At a recorded vote of 14 to 5, Council agreed with the findings of a study carried out by the Ministry of Community and Social Services, completed last September, that recommended the adoption of a county system and suggested ways such a system might be put together. Council will ask the Ministry to prepare a plan for a welfare administration service for implementation in 1987.

According to the Ministry study, the present system of welfare administration in Haliburton is inadequate in most municipalities. It stated that usually the by-law officer or a part-time employee has the responsibility of keeping tabs on welfare applicants, a duty that often has to be fitted in between other jobs. Of the 10 municipalities in the county, the report said, only 4 make home visits as required by law. Three of these make follow-up visits, and 6 municipalities make no home visits at all.

It also was pointed out that Haliburton is one of five counties in Ontario that have not yet adopted the county administration system, and that where ever the county system has been implemented, the majority of the population has always been satisfied.

"Counties have been administering welfare," says Warden Harry Davis, "since 1962, and Haliburton is one of the last hold-outs." Mr. Davis explains that he has been pushing the county to take over welfare administration for some years now. What really helped to swing councillors over to his side, remarks the Warden, was the findings of the Ministry of Community and Social Services study, which was done for free. And it didn't take much to convince Council to agree to the study. "Once people found out the report cost nothing, they went for it."

The main problem with the municipal system, argues Mr. Davis, is that "we don't have the qualified personnel who can take the time to understand and administer government welfare policy." And that government policy frequently changes from one month to the next.

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt of Anson, Hindon and Minden was in favour of county administration, but he points out, "We in our municipality probably have one of the better welfare systems." Dick Schell, the by-law officer, also has the job of welfare officer, but, "Dick is too valuable for us to allow him to spend the amount of time the job requires ... We'll never have enough time to start finding these (welfare cases) jobs." The best thing we can do, says Mr. Nesbitt, is to "put welfare administration in a bracket of its own and let somebody do it properly." He admits that the cost might be more than the municipality is paying now, arguing that the benefits of fairness and equality that would come with a system administered by the County would be worth the extra cost.

Bern Berry, Deputy Reeve of Anson, Hindon, Minden was one of the five to vote against the resolution, along with councillors from Stanhope and Snowdon. He believes the Ministry study is inaccurate, both in its conclusions on the present municipal system of administration and in its estimates on the cost of a county system. "Welfare administered by the county won't have the personal touch, the officials who administer it won't know the people they're dealing with in the way that municipal officials can know the recipients in their community," Mr. Berry said. The cost of the county system, Mr. Berry also feels, will be more than twice the

Baby wins race with stork

A nervous race against time had a successful conclusion early Thursday morning when a young woman gave birth to a baby girl in an ambulance outside Minden Hospital.

The 5 lb. 3 oz. baby was five weeks premature when it was delivered in the hospital's parking lot at 3:18 a.m. Both the mother, Laurie Smith and her baby were in good health when interviewed by The Times at Haliburton Hospital on Monday.

Everything was proceeding smoothly when the Smith couple contacted their doctor on Thursday to report ten minute contractions, according to Mrs. Smith. Because of the special nature of the pregnancy, their ambulance was directed to a hospital in Peterborough. Their doctor believed Mrs. Smith's labour to be still in an early stage.

The ambulance had only reached Kinmount when the baby started to come. The driver then changed course and headed back to Minden.

The delivery was successful, thanks to the skill of the ambulance drivers, Bob English and Al Bull.

The baby, the couple's first, has been named Amber Maris. Her middle name is a blending of the names of her two grandmothers, Marie and Doloris, explained Mrs. Smith.

It seems that the only person left disappointed was father Tim. The mechanic for Northernways Transit Ltd. had been keen on moving through the birth at his wife's side, but arrived in Minden too late to see it happen.

County-wide welfare

figure suggested in the study. And though the resolution to adopt the county system was voted in by a large majority, Mr. Berry considers that as more and more people begin to understand the true cost of county welfare, "you'll start to see more opposition to the move."

Another man who had nothing to do with the development of the new system but who feels that he should have, Dr. Alan Davidson, a Bracebridge psychiatrist. According to the doctor, two years ago, John Ford, one of his patients, and a frequent county welfare case, tried to commit suicide because of a "screwed up" welfare administration system that left him frustrated and depressed. Because of coverage this incident received in Toronto media, Dr. Davidson believes the County was forced to reconsider its welfare system.

Dr. Davidson objects because he was not consulted by council about the adoption of a new system. "The county should consult people who are concerned and have an interest ... They didn't even bother to tell me they were considering a change." He believes that Council is still operating, "in a very autocratic way," but admits that "I'm very pleased they've decided to accept the new welfare system."

Voting against the resolution besides Mr. Berry were Carol Puffer and Bill Valentine from Lutterworth Township, Bob Vick from Snowdon and Mac Peters from Cardiff.

Dorset acid rain report

Six precipitation events were recorded at the Dorset Ministry of Environment testing station during the past week. The following report of those incidents is provided by the Toronto office of Environment Canada.

- on May 18, 10 mm of rain fell. The pH reading was 4.8. The pathway of the rainfall was Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan and Southern Ontario.

- on May 19, 20 mm of rain was recorded with a pH of 5.0. The pathway of the rain was Kentucky, Ohio and Southern Ontario.

- on May 20, 9 mm of rain fell at Dorset. The pH reading was 4.6. The source of this rainfall was traced from Virginia over Pennsylvania, New York and Eastern Ontario.

- on May 21 a slight rainfall of 1 mm was recorded with a pH of 4.0. The pathway was West Virginia, West Pennsylvania and Southern Ontario.

- on May 22, 18 mm of rain fell with a pH of 5.1. The pathway for the rainfall was east Pennsylvania, New York and Eastern Ontario.

- on May 23, 7 mm of rain was recorded. The pH reading was 5.0. The pathway was traced to Southern Quebec and Eastern Ontario.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered serious.

BIA receives facade improvement report

Members of the Minden Business Improvement Area had an opportunity to view the results of the facade improvement study last Tuesday evening. The study was jointly financed by the BIA, the municipality and the provincial government.

The purpose of the study was to provide BIA members with a long-term decoration program which would enhance the over-all appearance of the community, giving it theme and continuity throughout the area covered. Consultant Bob Lehman of Barrie and associate architects and staff carried out the assessment over the past three months.

Mr. Lehman pointed out at the meeting that the study was not meant to present, hard and fast rules for the merchants to follow, but rather suggested ideas which their team, as outside observers, considered acceptable and reasonable changes for the community's business facades.

He also cautioned the audience not to expect to see the changes take place on the Main Street immediately. Mr. Lehman said the easiest way to implement the ideas contained in the report is to encourage each business to consider the options suggested by the planner when making changes to their business facade. He noted that over time, the community's downtown will begin to develop unifying characteristics that will create an identify among consumers.

The proposals presented by the planner were well received by the BIA members in attendance. Each of the businesses within the area were shown with the new look illustrated. The consultant's work included a three-dimensional representation of the community's Main Street from the bank corner to the bridge. The changed facades of the buildings in this section were portrayed on the scene.

In addition to the individual ideas, the consultants also carried out a detailed analysis of four business fronts in the community. Going into greater detail with these facades, the consultants provided a breakdown of what the changes would cost and how they should be implemented.

Each of the merchants in the BIA will be receiving a copy of the consultant's full report as well as a number of recommendations on unifying the core area colour scheme and changes to enhance the streetscape.

The cost of the study was $4800 with the BIA covering $2000, the provincial government $2400 and the municipality $400.

Most doctors ignore strike

surveys conducted by The Times.

The doctors at the Harry Good Medical Centre in Haliburton village stressed that freedom is at stake in the confrontation with the government. Even though they will not extra-bill, they believe that by striking they are upholding the option of other doctors to extra-bill.

The form that their strike will take, as explained by Harry Good staffer, Dr. Ken Craven, will be to open tomorrow but with "fewer" doctors at work. The centre, which has three doctors in all, will close altogether on Friday, though Dr. Craven will be on call at Haliburton Hospital.

Dr. Craven summed up the mood at Harry Good Medical Centre by saying, "I disagree with more government interference between doctors and their patients. It will harm their relationship."

Said Dr. Good, "The right to extra-bill should be there." In support of his argument, he invoked the example of lawyers who are hired by the government and don't receive a uniform fee.

Dr. Craven chose also to link this week's protest with what he sees as an additional problem in his field, the underfunding of hospitals in Haliburton County by the Ontario government. At Haliburton Hospital, according to him, there are ninety people on a waiting list for physiotherapy.

A sensible choice

The members of Haliburton County Council have recognized the need for a county-wide welfare system and have wisely endorsed the recommendation of a provincial study group to implement one as quickly as possible. If the wishes of the majority can be followed, it is likely the system will be in place by 1987.

There are a number of good reasons for administering welfare on a county basis. Not withstanding that this county was only one of five to continue with municipally run welfare systems, we feel the biggest advantage will be the professional approach which can be brought to the task when the funding is concentrated in a central office. As we have noted before, welfare is not an end in itself, but should be a bridge, assistance and support for individuals and families who have a need. In many cases, however, it will take more than the money to get these individuals back on the road to becoming active and contributing members of our community. Tht extra support will be available now in the form of professional counselling by staff trained in this field.

This counselling is not available on a regular basis now, where the job of administering a municipality's welfare rolls must compete with other tasks for the administrator's time.

Concerns expressed by those hesitant to endorse the new move, particularly those related to "empire building" and excessive cost, should be looked at. We feel, however, that these individuals will find that a county-wide system will be no more costly than the present arrangement when the cost of payments and staff time are included in their computations. As to "empire building" the members of county council hold the key to the county treasury and hiring procedures.

A catalyst

Another study for Minden's BIA has pointed the way to downtown improvements and enhancement. The CAUSE study of several years ago has proven to be a valuable tool with a large number of the suggested changes having been implemented.

The value of the most recent facade study lies not in what the words and pictures say, but rather whether individual merchants use the material provided as a catalyst for change. Minden will be a better place for it if they do.

Funds for health care

- by John Eakins, M.P.P. -

The budget introduced by my colleague, Robert Nixon on May 12 included major initiatives for tourism and small business sectors which are very important to the economy of Victoria - Haliburton. But, the treasurer also ensured that the budget included major funding assistance for the province's health care system.

The Treasurer has paid particular attention to the urgent needs in our health care system, which has been underfunded over the past decade.

First, $850 million dollars have been provided in this budget for a long overdue multi-year hospital capital expansion program. This will provide for new acute and chronic care beds and will provide money for the most pressing improvements to existing hospital and cancer treatment facilities. All construction will begin within the next five years, and should be completed in seven years.

We expect that in addition to increasing the number of acute care beds in our public hospitals, our government's capital development program will also free up existing acute care beds which are currently occupied by chronic care patients.

My colleague, the Minister of Health, Murray Elston, is conducting a special health care study to review priorities for future hospital capital requirements, and will shortly announce the details of the plan for hospital capital expansion and improvement of existing hospital and cancer facilities.

Secondly, the Minister of Health will soon be presenting a proposal to expand dental services for Ontario children. Funding will be provided to local health units to ensure that school-age children with urgent dental needs receive the necessary treatment.

These two programs will do much to heighten the quality of health care in Victoria - Haliburton and the entire province.

Space program expands

- by Bill Scott, M.P. -

A new Canadian Space Program, expected to create more than 100,000 person-years of employment and up to $8 billion in revenues by the year 2000, was announced by the Honourable Frank Oberle, Minister of State for Science and Technology, the Honourable Minister of State for Science and Technology, the Honourable Marcel Masse, Minister of Communications and the Honourable Robert Layton, Minister of State for Mines on May 12.

The centerpiece of the program, the development of the mobile serving centre for the United States space station program, will stimulate the development of strategic technologies, such as robotics and artificial intillegence. These technologies are important to the growth of ground-based industries and jobs for the future. Canada will have a highly visible role in collaboration with the United States, European countries and Japan.

The Canadian Space Program includes support to permit the implementation by Telesat Canada of MSAT - a new, commercial communications satellite system for mobile users. MSAT, conceived by the Department of Communi-

The Ontario government has increased its allocation for the 1986 budworm and gypsy moth forest protection program to a total of $27.5 million, Natural Resources Minister Vincent Kerrio announced recently. The funds, approved by Cabinet, will be used to combat infestations of spruce budworm, jack pine budworm and gypsy moth.

"These additional funds will allow us to virtually double the budget for this year's gypsy moth spraying program in eastern Ontario - to $11.5 million," Mr. Kerrio said. "This year's spraying program is three times larger than any the province has previously undertaken, and reflects the serious concern of this government at the increasing spread of these pests."

Spraying gypsy moth with a biological insecticide, Bacillus thuringiensis or Bt, began about May 18.

Infestations of spruce budworm are expected to continue throughout the north. The spruce budworm infested 12.3 million hectares in 1985.

Jack pine budworm is prevalent in MNR's northern, northwestern and northeastern regions, where 3.67 million hectares were damaged.

A total of 55,000 hectares of private land will be sprayed with Bt in the gypsy moth program. About 30,000 hectares of Crown land will also be sprayed.

Mr. Kerrio said the Ministry had worked with local governments in the nine eastern Ontario counties - where infestations are greatest - to devise and fund a plan that will see substantially more private land being sprayed to protect it from damage caused by gypsy moth caterpillars.

The nine counties involved with MNR in the gypsy moth program include Frontenac, Peterborough, Renfrew, Hastings, Leeds & Grenville, Northumberland, Prince Edward, Lennox & Addington and Lanark.

Gypsy moth moved into the province from the eastern United States in 1969. The first major damage caused by the pests was in 1981, when moderate to severe damage was recorded on 1,000 hectares. In 1985, that damage was estimated at 246,000 hectares.

"Private land is the first priority in the aerial spraying program. Because of the co-operation of the counties involved, this program has been substantially increased and as a result, 61 per cent of the private landowners who applied to join this program will have their properties sprayed," Mr. Kerrio said.

Training centre's success rate high while federal government tightening the screws

by John Greenwood

At the centre of the crisp, white tablecloth in front of me sits a vase of flowers. The hum of quiet conversation from the other guests of the Haliburton Hospitality Training Centre's weekly luncheon rises and falls, and bright sunlight streams through the big window at the side of the dining room, illuminating the dark wood and elegant wallpaper that decorate the inside of the Centre's old Victorian style house.

The meal, served intelligently and professionally by student Doris Woods, begins with an excellent Caesar salad, I order grilled salmon with oyster sauce as a main course, and for dessert, rhubarb cake - both of which rank well within anything you might be served in the County's best dining rooms.

Everything is prepared, says staff member Julie Chadwick, "by the students themselves; the cooking, the table settings, and even the menu is done by a student." Ms. Chadwick is obviously proud of her pupils' accomplishments - and rightly so. This group (there are 9 people in it) began their session 15 weeks ago and everyone was new to the business. In another 3 weeks they'll graduate, and, "all but one will have jobs in the area. The only one who doesn't have one yet is moving to another town."

And what makes this record even more of an achievement is the fact that all Hospitality Training students are classed by the Federal Government as "employment disadvantaged," meaning that they're people who for some reason find it difficult to get a job, whether because they have never held one before, or are entering the workforce after being out of it for a long time, or have a poor employment record, or just because they live far away from town.

Often, says Ms. Chadwick, the students don't have much self confidence when they first arrive. But as they learn to tend bar or to waitress, or to cook, they come out of their shell and develop a much stronger sense of themselves. And that's one of the most important things in any job interview.

"So far," explains Ms. Chadwick, "we've graduated about 60 students since the Hospitality Training Centre first opened its doors 3 years ago." As the Centre has about 2 sessions a year with an average of 10 or 11 students each, this means that over 90 per cent of the people who enroll, complete the course. And follow-up studies, which are done every two and a half months, reveal that over 85 per cent of Hospitality Centre graduates are now employed. That too is a record to be proud of.

Promising future

After the meal has been eaten, the coffee drunk, and the conversation spent, the guests rise to their feet and contentedly shuffle out. But in the kitchen, the students are bustling about, cleaning pots and putting things back into the refrigerator.

Eddie McGue, a broad, dark-haired future bartender in his early 20's, is helping. In another 3 weeks, he'll be ready to graduate. "I'm going to be working at the Rockcliffe Tavern after this. I just started working there part time on weekends, and it's a lot of fun. It gets pretty hairy on Saturdays but the time goes fast." Before coming to the Hospitality Centre, Mr. McGue was "cutting wood in the bush. Bar tending is very different to that sort of work, and I enjoy it a lot more."

Another student, Doris Woods, is washing dishes. A pretty blond in her thirties, she seems to like the job. "I'm studying to be a waitress, and I really enjoy the program. It teaches you self-discipline and also to strive for better things." Doris's eyes are bright, and you get the impression for some reason that she'll do well at whatever she chooses. Before coming to the Centre, she was a mother and homemaker for 13 years.

Waitress trainee Doris Woods clears tables at the Hospitality Training Centre following a successful luncheon.

Richard Flemming seems older than most of the students and has done quite a few jobs in his time. A big pot in one hand and a scrubber in the other, he's helping Doris wash up. "I'm going to be a cook's helper when I'm finished here, though I'm not sure yet just where I'll be working." But Mr. Flemming is confident he won't have too much trouble finding a job. "I'm hoping for a lodge if I can get it." Clearly, he is a very competent man, but like most of the other students he went through a long period of unemployment before coming to the centre.

The other six students have similar stories to tell, and it is gratifying to see the renewed confidence and hope in their eyes. So it's not difficult to understand why Julie Chadwick describes the program as, "a wonderful success that gives the staff a really good feeling."

Tough restrictions

Since it began in 1983, the Hospitality Training Centre has been gradually gaining the confidence and respect of the community. Starting out with a grant from the Federal Government's LEAP (Local Employment Assistance Program), the organization began on reasonably solid financial ground. This year however, they're being funded by the Government's Job Development program, and this is making life difficult for the centre because last September Flora McDonald, the Minister of Employment and Immigration, introduced some tough new restrictions on money given to programs for the unemployed.

"It's not that we can't get the grants," explains Julie Chadwick, "the problem is that staff members are having a hard time finding enough students who fit into the Government's rigid definition of employment disadvantaged. This year we managed to squeak by by taking applicants who'd worked less than 6 weeks last summer. But next year, we won't be able to do that. The Government has just decided to put its foot down."

Letters to Ms. McDonald, asking her to review the case of the Centre have been written by Ann Barker, a member of the Stanhope Council. "But so far," says Mrs. Barker, "we've been able to make no progress with the minister." In the meantime, says Ms. Chadwick, "we'll go to some local organization for funding."

Until recently, one of the Centre's biggest problems was that it just wasn't well known in the community, but as more and more students have graduated and proven themselves on the job market - and the reputation of the Centre in the process - this has changed. So staff members are hopeful that someone will step in and give them a hand. After all, as future bar tender Eddie McGue remarks, "they teach you good here."

Solid questions - hard arguments

- by Gary Kenney -

Life can be so cruel.

Forget a dreaded day this fall when forty sticks of flaming wax will overpopulate the top of my favourite chocolate cake. I can handle it.

Forget Anne McKay's letter from Carnarvon last week. She makes a good point even if it does recall a past election when the forgotten-five were handed their heads. I can handle it.

I can even handle it when our two year-old finishes my sentences before I do.

But county council? They shatter me.

Take last week. As happens about every 5.1 million seconds, our nabobs were due to succumb to a rare herding instinct and gather together from their many and scattered committee rooms.

Like Halley's Comet, such an event requires certain audience preparation and mine goes something like this.

I try to get there five minutes before they sit down. That way I catch them actually moving and can verify vital signs of life that are not so easily recognized once the agenda begins.

I take a pair of Norton B1200 ear plugs too. They guard chainsaw operators' hearing and also possess a little known quality for filtering low frequency snores and wheezes out of general conversation.

Finally, I don't take note paper anymore, just codes for a master list at home. Much more accurate.

For instance, if I check of ZZZZ - that refers to "the Warden called once again for a discussion of the weather, washroom supplies, and other critical issues."

OK4ME2 means there was a vote with no discussion. Strangely enough, OK4ME2 also means there was a vote with discussion.

ZEROplus$$ is the code for new business, wisely conducted as councillors and their body temperatures climb back from post coffee-break lows, spurred to ruddy interest by the paycheques handed around by the clerk.

So anyway, last week this bleacher creature was thusly prepared for our May edition of The Joke's On Us when what of all things should break out during the $25 per hour sleepathon but an authentic, 100% bonafide, unvarnished, slap your heels and sass the neighbours, county council meeting.

I still shiver at the thought of it. Frank opinions tossed around with nary a peek at the approved script. Solid questions asked. Hard arguments made.

It must have made Messers. Fearrey, Howe, and Ms. Puffer tingle. Imagine. Other opinions!

But what do I do now? This amateur scribbler spends months developing a system to make some sense of our high level politics and just when I figure I've got it under control, kazaam ... mid-life crisis. County council can work.

Oh sure, there were still holdover signs of the bluster and bombast of past meetings we have come to cherish (like when Reeve Nesbitt got in a snit 'cause his Deputy voted against him on one issue), and another issue was thoroughly discussed first, then a vote taken, then the resolution read - completely reverse order - but let's not be picky.

I'm not scrapping my master codes, or leaving the Norton plugs at home just yet. But I am really looking forward to the next meeting.

The British parliamentary tradition, with all the contradictions of a Kensington Market street quarrel set to an arrangement of Brahm's Lullaby, is the most open and accountable form of government available today.

There are signs it still lives in the Highlands.

Lutterworth's main man fired a broadside across the bow of fellow county councillors last week. The majority are setting sail toward a single welfare office for all Highlands townships.

Mr. Valentine made some good points, along with Minden's Mr. Berry. More next week on an issue that to some looks "more like a case of kingdom building than anything else."

Business briefs

New owners have taken over at the Noble Motel and Restaurant on Highway 35 just north of the county line. Bruce and Gloria Cuthbert are the proprietors of the ideally situated motel, formerly known as the Forest Echo.

The new owners include their family of five children among those who will be instrumental in the operation of the restaurant and motel, and they all seem eager to assist. Their presence helps strike a tone which the Cuthberts hope will prevade the operation of the establishment. "We want to cater to families," Bruce commented, "this is a place where families can feel welcome."

The motel includes six fully equipped units while the dining room and patio overlooking Moore Lake is fully licenced. The menu at the Noble will feature home cooked meals with daily specials. Home made soups, dessert, and such main courses as baked Virginia ham, roast turkey and cabbage rolls will be among the featured items.

The facilities at the Noble include a beach, boat launching and boat rental. The business is open on a year round basis and is the headquarters for the Moore Lake Cottagers Association. The group has already met at the resort once this year.

The Cuthbert's plan a busy summer of activities including dances, flea markets, horseshoe and euchre tournaments among other events.

The restaurant is also available for banquets, weddings and private parties.

The Cuthberts have always enjoyed this part of Ontario, having owned a cottage in the Sebright area for a number of years. Bruce is an electrician by trade and the family recently sold their bookstore in Aurora before moving to the Highlands.

The couple were taken by the former name of the motel restaurant when they purchased the property several months ago. While it may be a while before the formalities are completed, they plan to change the name back to the Forest Echo, a name certainly matching their pleasant lakeside setting.

Openings

Some people are wondering why it took Paulette and Bob so long to making the big announcement.

Actually, there are a number of reasons Paulette Blake and Bob Fyfe, of Paulette's Antiques and Gifts and The Sports Stop in Haliburton, waited this long to celebrate their opening. The two stores have been in operation at their present location for almost a year.

The two found that the rush of getting their stores opened and underway made it difficult to co-ordinate a special sale and the attendant hoopla. As well, they wanted to wait until the summer season was underway so as many individuals as possible could take part in the celebration. So some 10 months after opening their doors, the two businesses will now hold the celebration this Saturday.

Better late than never.

The Sports Stop, operated by Bob and Ellen Fyfe, carries a wide selection of sporting goods and items for the outdoor enthusiasts. As the seasons change, so does the emphasis. Right now, running shoes, bicycles, baseball equipment and other outdoor sports necessities are front and centre. Later in the year winter activities such as skating, hockey, curling and squash, move to the forefront.

Paulette Blake has established a well deserved reputation for the quality gifts found in her store. She has operated on Haliburton's Main Street and moved to the new larger quarters just last year. The increased space means she has a larger inventory. In addition to an interesting selection of art and crafts, Paulette's has a bath boutique, old time candy counter, Christmas nook, kitchen corner and excellent selection of wickerware.

Redecoration

Kathy and John Stainton have completed the renovation of that venerable Highway 35 institution, The Brown Owl Restaurant. The new look offers a spacious, fresh appearance that will make a visit to the Owl even more enjoyable.

What is truly remarkable is that the work was carried out in one week. With trades people swarming over the restaurant, they removed what wasn't required and installed, painted, rewired, papered and plumbed, in time for the restaurant's opening at the beginning of the following week.

While the restaurant was under the hammer, Kathy and John provided a special basic menu from a mobile canteen set up in the parking lot.

The redecoration is a welcome addition to the Highway 35 commercial scene and should prove to be popular with the summer crowd.

Expansions

We understand that a number of tennants have already indicated their interest in the new commercial spaces being developed in the Valu-Mart mall. The expansion of business opportunities will be welcome by those in the community eager to see the commercial sector grow.

Work has also commenced on the newest addition to the Minden HomeAll. The shed will provide additional indoor storage and sales space at this busy building supply location.

from the chamber

by Shawn Hagerman

On Friday I met with the Chamber's management committee to review our budget for the upcoming year. This revised budget will be presented to our board at our June meeting and later to the county. It corporates the "Tourism Promotion" and "Community Service Agreement" that I proposed to the representatives of county's management committee last February. The proposal has been in the public domain since then and I have reviewed the importance with many people who have called me wanting to know more about it.

For those who have not yet had a chance to talk to me, or read my April column concerning the matter, I will review it again. I feel it is a major step forward in the development of cooperation between the County and the Chamber.

In the agreement I listed ten important services that the Chamber would undertake on behalf of the County. To ensure this being done, the Chamber would provide a written report to the County twice yearly.

In addition, but seperate to the three year formal agreement the Chamber submitted a yearly renewable marketing agreement. These promotions were a multi-media blitz of our County through radio, television, billboards, maps, newspapers, adds, travel and tourism shows. Each item and its cost was listed.

The County accepted the principle of the three year agreement, and the need to keep a high profile for the Chamber in and out of the County. They were however faced with their own limitations concerning any budgetary increases. The money that was allocated by them fell short of what was needed to provide the staffing that we felt was necessary for our office over the next three years or to implement many of the yearly marketing ideas and do extra promotions that I hoped could occur.

We will be able to keep the staff we have, the in-watts advertising, and the in-watts line and our COTA membership. The summer guide, has been solely a COTA project for the last three years as I mention in my April column. Its publication and general distribution costs are being solely by its advertisers. With this guide the Chamber has no financial involvement, other than we cover the in-house mailing costs to our seasonal residents. We have also allocated money to publish our important winter guide brochure, in the fall.

Our other shows and promotions, including the Sportsmen's Show, must be self liquidating or they will not occur. Our committees and myself struggled to decide what was the most important and would give the best return for the limited available funds. Even cutting what we did, there is still a projected deficit that must be met, by an increase in membership fees or a special fund raising effort, or perhaps both. At our next meeting, Al Mayo, who is heading up a special committee to report on this matter, will give his report concerning what he feels is the best way to meet this deficit.

Board honours retiring employees, trustees

The Haliburton County School Board expressed its gratitude to three employees and six trustees who are retiring this year, at a dinner on Friday at Deer Lodge.

Among the retiring employees was Archie Stouffer Elementary Shool teacher Ernice Warder. Mrs. Warder, who taught in the Sudbury area before coming here, began at the Stanhope School in 1963 and came to the Minden school in 1965, where she has stayed until this year. She is remembered particularly as one of the Board's pioneers in the field of special education. Long before government legislation came in, Mrs. Warder was deeply interested in ways of teaching children with learning disabilities.

Though she plans to live quietly now, a visit to Expo '86 is in the works.

Retiring from Haliburton Highlands Secondary School is Carl Wallace, who began teaching in the county in 1957, where he has remained for his entire career. Mr. Wallace is Head of the Geography Department at Haliburton Highlands.

Also honoured at the dinner was Carl Francis, custodian of the J. Douglas Hodgson Secondary School complex. Mr. Francis, a well known sight around the school grounds, is taking early retirement to devote more time to his farm in Lochlin.

As well as the three Board employees, six retiring Board Trustees were also thanked. They were Bonnie-Lee Berry of Anson, Hindon and Minden, Brian Sisson also of Anson, Hindon and Minden, Julie Hunter of Glamorgan, Dorothy Kinsman of Stanhope, Paul Wilson of Dysart et al, and Kelly Crick of the Bicroft/ Cardiff Separate School Zone.

cations, will improve mobile communications by eliminating the need for large, expensive dish antennas normally associated with satellite communications.

It will bring essential mobile two-way telephone and data services throughout Canada. Owned and operated by Telesat Canada, government support consists of a lease of communications services, and market and technology development. It is expected to generate $2.4 billion worth of foreign and domestic sales and 3000 permanent high technology jobs.

Further development by the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources of Canada's satellite remote sensing program is also included in the space program. The government will continue to support development of radar data use and image processing and analysis, thus maintaining Canadian industry's world lead in remote sensing technologies.

The government has challenged the private sector and provincial governments to participate financially in a Canadian radar satellite (RADARSAT). Several companies are seriously considering the proposal and negotiations are underway with the provinces and foreign governments. RADARSAT would provide reliable data on our resources, regardless of weather conditions and would help us exercise our northern sovereignty through daily monitoring of our Arctic regions.

The Space Program establishes the Canadian Astronaut Program on a permanent basis and approves a continuing space science effort. We will negotiate agreements with NASA for future shuttle flights involving Canadians.

Canada's association with Europe will continue through participation in programs of the European Space Agency (ESA) and through co-operation with France in the initial stages of the Mermes manned spaceplane project. This will allso Canadian industry to capitalize further on investments in the CANADARM program. Our involvement in ESA's satellite communications and remote sensing development programs will be expanded.

Shiny cars and dedicated drivers face the Black Bear Rally challenge

The parking lot in front of the Minden arena was awash in bright colour last Saturday morning, as drivers in flashy racing suits made last-minute adjustments to gleaming cars in preparation for the Black Bear Rally. By eleven o'clock, almost all the 32 entries were lined up on the gravel: Toyotas, Datsuns, Renaults, and Volvos, all carefully, tooled, adjusted, and reconditioned so that many were not so much automobiles as thoroughbred machines.

One of the bigger races in the Canadian circuit, the Black Bear Rally attracts drivers from all over Canada and some from the United States. It is also a performance race, meaning that it is a "pure speed" event. The winner is the car with the fastest average time over the course.

And as a rally race, it's also a very accessable sport; unlike formula racing, it is not that difficult for a determined car enthusiast to have a try at it. All you need is a car with a good engine, and certain modifications in the suspension and safety equipment. That's if you want to enter the Production Class.

To enter in the Open Class - the other division in this race - you need a lot more money. Vehicles in this class are heavily modified and many of them have engines well in excess of 200 horsepower.

Main Street start

By two o'clock, the cars were all lined at the start in front of the Rockcliffe Tavern, and the expectant crowd stood on both sides of the road. At the ribbon in front of the first car, stood Reeve Sinc Nesbitt, scissors in hand as he waited for the signal to begin the race.

And the cameras clicked as the first car zoomed off on the first leg of the gruelling seven hour course. Before finishing at Glenroy Lodge, with first car arriving at 8:30 p.m., racers had to cover many miles of Ministry of Natural Resources access roads at top speed, as well as highways. And at the end of the six stages, and all the ruts, bumps, and crevices the route had to offer, there was little doubt in any drivers' mind that either he or his car would be in shape for anything except a good rest.

Despite this knowledge, the drivers are cheerful at the start of the race. Driver Bo Skowronneck and co-driver Terry Epp happily point out some of the modifications they've made to their open class Datsun 510. "Actually," laughs Mr. Epp, it's a Datsun in name only. We tore out the insides and threw away everything but the shell. That engine" - here, he points to the enormous hunk of metal that seems to take up three quarters of his car - "is a V-8 Ford 302." It's common knowledge that many of these vehicles will have a few extra dints and scrapes by the end of the day, but Mr. Epp is confident that "this car doesn't go off the road. It'll look the same on the way back."

Bjorn Anderson's car number was well-chosen as he finished first in his class during the Black Bear Rally.

Bjorn Anderson is the favourite to win the open class. A Finn, who has been living in London, Ontario for the past 10 years, Mr. Anderson leans calmly against the side of his bright red Toyota. "I took out the 1.6 litre engine it came with and put in this 2 litre with a twin cam."

Other drivers standing nearby guess that Mrs. Anderson's car is well over 200 horse power. With all its extra wires, seat belts, and sleek racing stripes, the car gives you the feeling that this might be a very modest estimate. (In fact, when the race results are tallied that evening, Bjorn Anderson is the winner.)

Driver Mark Alexander and co-driver Jim Lloyd have come all the way from Columbus, Ohio, to enter the Black Bear Rally. As far as enthusiasm goes, they rank easily with the best teams here, but financial resources are another story. "We've got a few local sponsors back home, but most of the money in this car is our own."

They're driving a '72 Toyota Selica with 158,000 original miles on it. Of course the parts have all been re-tooled and put into racing condition, but, "essentially it's the same engine the car had in the show room."

Real drivers

Mark Alexander raises his eyes to the heavens as he tries to sum up just what it is about rally driving that has caught his imagination. "Real drivers, driving real cars, real fast, on real roads."

The two racers admit "it would be nice to win," but they also realize that the competition is very stiff. Altogether they believe they've put about 15 thousand dollars into their car, and they know well that they'll be up against cars worth six times that amount.

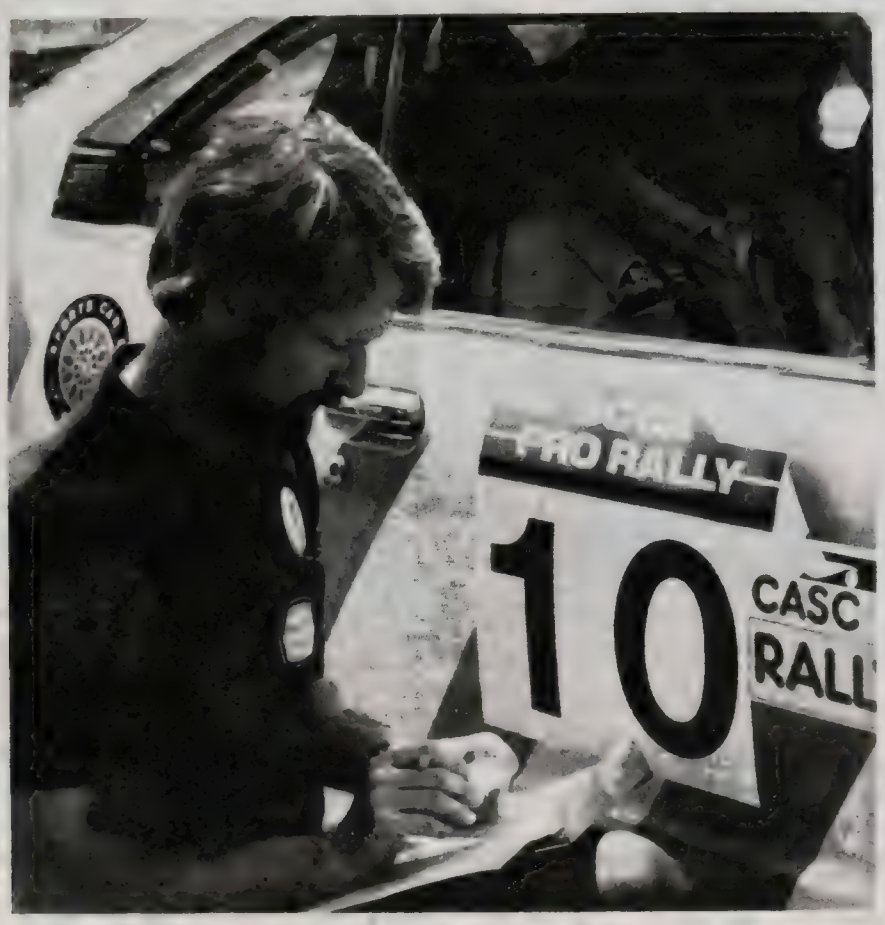
Lawrence Partington drives such a vehicle. A dapper film company owner in a broad hat and bright overalls, he leans confidently against his hand-made Renault. "My company was filming a race in Europe and it was through that job that I got my car. Renault was getting out of rally racing and I managed to get this car for about 10 thousand. It was worth 20 thousand then, and since I bought it, I've been putting in about 20 thousand dollars a year."

Mr. Partington is laid back when he talks about how he decided to give rally racing a try. "I was doing a lot of films on this sort of racing, and I just thought it would be fun to have a go."

All the same, you get the feeling that like all the participants in the Black Bear Rally, this man is very competitive. Asked how he expects to place, Mr. Partington replies, "I should win in my class."

The tally sheet

Of the 32 cars that started, 28 finished. As some drivers predicted, driver Anderson and co-driver Jackson won the race with an average speed of 77.0 kl hr. Second place was taken by driver Luttenberger and co-driver Kreller, and third went to driver Wells and co-driver Harris.



Rally organizer Larry Flint gathers some last minute statistics at the starting line of the Black Bear Rally on Minden's Main Street.

Hustlers open with 2 wins

After having their first game rained out last Thursday night at home, the Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers travelled to Lindsay on Sunday afternoon and swept a big double header.

In the first game against Kent Tavern, Jack Snell struck out eleven batters and allowed only four hits as the Hustlers downed Kent 9 - 3.

Greg Newell led the way with a homer, triple and a double while brother Collin added a triple and a double. Snell helped his own cause with a double and two singles. Rob Craigen had a strong game behind the plate for the Hustlers.

In the second game, with Greg Newell on the mound, the Hustlers hammered out a 9 - 6 win over the Lindsay Rent-All. Dave Hartwick was the big gun at bat for the locals with two doubles and a single while Andrew Burk slammed a three run homer.

Collin Newell in centre field, Kevin Smith at the hot spot on third base and Burk playing at second all came up with some fine defensive plays. Dave Dollo, who was behind the plate for the Hustlers, also picked up two hits for the winners.

The Hustlers, who started no less than four newcomers in the first game and five in the second, are in a rebuilding year and if their play on the weekend is any indication, they should be in for another fine year.

This week the Hustlers play at home on Thursday night at 8:00 against Bobcaygeon, then travel back to Bobcaygeon on Monday, June 2, also at 8:00 p.m.

Retiring fire chief honoured at banquet

Minden's Fire Chief for 10 years was honoured at a special banquet Saturday evening at the Community Centre. William Jackson, known to most area residents as Deac, retired as head of the Anson, Hindon and Minden Department earlier this year.

The retiring fire chief was praised for his efforts by a number of individuals representing the province, municipality and fellow firefighters.

Bill Wilson, Fire Services Officer with the Fire Marshall's Office in Peterborough, was on hand to present Deac with a plaque marking his contribution to fire fighting. Wilson noted that while those in attendance were familiar with Deac's efforts locally, he had also served as an assistant to the fire Marshall's office, having an impact throughout the province.

The newly appointed fire chief, Don Booth reminisced about his service under Deac Jackson. He noted that in the forty year history of the department, there had been only three chiefs. Deac was preceded by Ern Hewitt and Eldon Deacon, both whom he had served under.

Mr. Booth recalled that as soon as Deac Jackson took over as head of the department, construction was started on a new firehall followed by the purchase of a tanker truck and a vigorous training program. "His shoes will be hard to fill," the incoming chief commented.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt, the only member of the municipal council in attendance, noted that Chief Jackson had given the department 100% of his effort and had shared his knowledge with other members of the brigade, which will be of lasting benefit to the community.

Deputy Fire Chief Bob Wells then presented Deac Jackson with a painting commisioned by the members of the Minden Department. The painting showed a fire fighting scene in the winter with the firefighters not only battling the blaze, but the elements as well. The painting was done by Paul Beckingham of the North York Fire Department.

In response to the presentations and comments Mr. Jackson noted that he had enjoyed his term as chief. He pointed out that the position can be an enjoyable and challenging one, but that when someone died in a fire or there was heavy property damage, it can be depressing.

The retiring chief said he was particularly pleased to be involved in the formation of the mutual aid system in the county. "This system is good for the county and for the municipality," he told the gathering.

Commenting that he wouldn't miss the interruptions to a good night's sleep that often are a part of a fireman's job, Deac Jackson wished the department further success in the coming years.

An evening of dancing was enjoyed following the banquet.

Retiring Fire Chief, Deac Jackson, was honoured Saturday night at a banquet at the Minden Community Centre. Presenting him with gifts on behalf of the members of the department are the newly appointed Fire Chief Don Booth and Deputy Chief Bob Wells, right.

Hypnotist amazes Guild audience

The atmosphere was pleasant and formal at the annual dinner of the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts held in the Wig-A-Mog Inn Saturday. Approximately 100 guests sat down to an excellent dinner prepared by the students of the Hospitality Training Centre, and everyone applauded when Barb Bolin, a director of the School of Fine Arts, thanked the assembled friends and staff members of the School for their support.

But the highlight of the evening was the show put on after dinner by hypnotist Joe Graham from Dorset. Mr. Graham, an Irishman with quick grey eyes, started off cautiously with a few card tricks. Members of the audience were asked to shuffle a deck and choose a card, and each time Mr. Graham managed to guess what it was.

The audience that night had seen card games before and when the hypnotist suggested that some of the crowd might like to come to the stage, the people there that night pricked up their ears. Soon eight volunteers were sitting in a row beside Mr. Graham, feeling, it appeared, skeptical.

But in less than three minutes, most of those assembled in the Wig-A-Mog dining room were convinced that something odd was happening. After rythmically speaking to and touching each of his volunteers, Mr. Graham knelt down beside Curtis Eastmure. "You're falling asleep and your body is stiffening, first your legs, then your stomach, and now your arms." Mr. Eastmure was then stood up - he looked something like a zombie - and laid across two chairs, his head on one and his feet on the other.

A gasp escaped from the audience.

Then Mr. Graham asked another of his subjects, Wendy Seys, to stand on Mr. Eastmure's middle. She did. Mr. Eastmure remained rigid, and people at the back of the room stood up to get a better look.

As the show continued, even the doubting Thomases came to believe in the power of Mr. Graham (who admitted he'd been told as a child in Ireland that he "had a devil in him as big as a horse.") At one particular notable point, Joan Ward came to the stge when Mr. Graham asked if there was anyone in the audience who didn't believe they could be hypnotised. Mrs. Ward, wearing a fashionable blueish green gown, was placed in a chair facing the line of hypnotised volunteers. Mr. Graham then turned to face the line: "You're going to sleep now, but when I snap my fingers you'll open your eyes, and you'll see in front of you a lady without any clothes."

Hypnotist Joe Graham, centre, gestures as willing subject Curtis Eastmure, lies rigidly stretched between two chairs during a display of the power of hypnotic suggestion Saturday evening.

On cue the volunteers woke up, and if Mr. Eastmure's grin is anything to go by, it didn't appear to them Mrs. Ward was wearing anything at all.

But Mrs. Ward was a brave soul and she held her smile as she marched confidently back to her seat in the audience.

When the evening ended sometime around midnight, there were few people who were not quite certain that at the front of the dining room of the Wig-A-Mog Inn that Saturday night, they had been witness to something very strange indeed.

Is he really hypnotized? Wendy Seys tests the power of the hypnotic trance of a rigid Curtis Eastmure. She stands on the subject as he maintains his stiff pose between two chairs.

Council briefs

- Items from the May meeting of Haliburton County Council.

Welfare

A study of the administration of welfare in Haliburton County carried out by the Ministry of Community and Social Services was reported on by Warden Harry Davis. Included in the study were facts about the inadequacy of the present municipal administration system, and a plan for a more efficient way of administrating welfare through the county. A resolution was then passed to accept the recommendations of the Ministry study.

Appointment

Shawn Hagerman was reappointed as agent of record for the Haliburton County insurance proposal.

Refusal

It was reported that council tried to get the Federal Government to review the agreement on water levels. The Government refused.

Fishing

A report on the Ministry of Natural Resources' plan to close some county lakes being over-fished was made. Some councillors said they were concerned that such measures would only cause anglers to overfish other lakes. It was decided that an MNR biologist from Huntsville who doesn't believe County lakes are being overfished should be brought to speak to Council.

Grant

It was reported that the Paudash Trailblazers, a snowmobile club, have requested a larger grant from the county. It was decided they should be given the original grant and no more because the budget has already been made up.

Gypsy moths

A report on the advance of the gypsy moth was given. Concern was voiced over the MNR's standard spraying of infested areas. Haliburton, it was said, has a great many lakes, and not enough study has been done on the effect of anti-moth spray on lakes.

Pins

General interest was expressed by council for the design and purchase of official Haliburton County lapel pins to give to guests and visiting officials. Though Warden Davis argued that they might just as well "hand people a book of matches," a resolution to order the pins was passed.

Jackets

A majority of councillors also agreed to look into the design and purchase of official Haliburton County Council jackets because, as Deputy Reeve Bill Davis of Dysart et al noted, "some of us have out grown our old ones." The councillors agreed to foot the bill for the jackets out of their own pockets.

The grade eight boys basketball team at Archie Stouffer Elementary School finished second in a recently held tournament. The team defeated Haliburton in the opening round by a 21-17 score, then dropped two games against Mariposa School for the runner-up finish. Leading scorers for the team were Craig Smith and Joey Boyle. Members of the team include, from the left, front row, Darnell Francis, B.J. Thornback, Stu Mills; second row, Lee Raback, Jeff Sisson, Blaine Cooper, Stephen Schrader, Jay Garbutt, Joey Boyle; back row, Larry Little, Greg Cairns, Hunter Obee, Craig Smith, Kent Taylor, Dean Solway, George Simmons and coach, Mr. Dave McKinlay.

MERCURY OUTBOARDS

New for 1986 Mercury has introduced an all new line of fishing motors (6,8 & 9.9 h.p.) With these motors, you can handle all major functions with just one hand, while you fish with the other. Just push down on the tiller, and you can choose from 7 different positions: three trim, three shallow water drive and full tilt. You can even adjust the trim while you're underway. It's a system exclusive with - and patented by - Mercury.

The carrying handle is not only at the proper balance point, it folds back out of the way once the motor is on the transom. You'll also find our 9.9 h.p. to be about 10 pounds lighter than competitors motors of comparable horsepower.

You can pull the starting rope from any angle, because the rope guide was designed for it. A compression release feature cuts down the pull force required, and a fuel primer system, instead of a choke, automatically injects just the right amount of fuel for quick, short, one-pull starts.

The cross flow induction system and CD ignition help these motors start instantly and idle perfectly. In fact, they're designed to idle down to 650 rpm - a couple hundred rpm's slower than competitive outboards. And do it all day without loading up. It seems something of an irony that the people who build some of the world's fastest outboards have also designed motors to troll the slowest.

And for trolling, the choke knob can be adjusted for perfect idle speeds by simply turning the knob.

MNR continues spray program

for the spraying program were chosen so that maximum benefits would be given to the largest number of landowners. Large blocks of land, where adjacent neighbours had applied for the program, were given first priority.

"However, some smaller, scattered, more isolated properties where adjacent neighbours are not participating in the spraying program could not be accommodated. To try to spray a small, single property in isolation is not possible in a program of this size," Mr. Kerrio said.

"The gypsy moth is established in such an expansive area that it is operationally impossible to eradicate the pest. The spraying program can, however, protect some of the forests from defoliation, and retard the rate at which the pest is spreading," said Mr. Kerrio.

J.G. Malcolm, Secretary

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Purpose of Ontario Municipal Board Hearing

RE: By-Laws 85-7 and 85-22 - Corporation of the Township of Stanhope.

On August 24, 1985, the Council of The Corporation of the Township of Stanhope gave third and final reading and finally passed By-Law 85-7, being a Comprehensive Zoning By-Law enacted pursuant to the provisions of Section 34 of The Planning Act, S.O. 1983, c.1, as amended. The By-Law serves to regulate the use of lands and the character, location and use of buildings and structures throughout the Municipality. On September 6, 1985, a Notice of Passing of By-Law 85-7 was circulated to all property owners. Property owners were given until October 1, 1985 to file written objections or letters of support to By-Law 85-7 with the Clerk of the Township. As a result, various appeals to different aspects of the By-Law were received by the Clerk. These appeals consisted generally of concerns relative to certain Commercial, Environmental Protection, Shoreline Residential Type Two and Extractive Industrial Zones contained within the By-Law.

Also, on August 24, 1985 the Council of The Corporation of The Township of Stanhope, passed By-Law 85-22, being an Interim Zoning By-Law passed pursuant to provisions of Section 37 of The Planning Act, S.O. 1983, c.1 as amended. This By-Law was passed to prohibit any use of lands on Lot 15 Concession VIII, Township of Stanhope for the purposes of a trailer camp or park, seasonal, for a mobile home park, for a mobile home dwelling or motorized mobile home; or for a trailer camp or trailer park as defined in The Municipal Act for a period of one (1) year. This one year period of time was to permit a review or study to be undertaken in respect of land use planning policies dealing with trailer camps and trailer parks.

On the 12th day of September, 1985, Notice of Passing of By-Law 85-22 was circulated in accordance with Section 37 (3) of The Planning Act 1983. As a result of this circulation, an appeal was received in opposition to the By-Law.

Subsequently, By-Laws 85-7 and 85-22 together with the subject appeals were forwarded to the Ontario Municipal Board, pursuant to the Planning Act 1983 for further consideration.

Notice of "Appointment for Hearing" by the Ontario Municipal Board, is hereby given to all persons who desire to be heard in support of or in opposition to these appeals.

Walkers will help third world

On Saturday, May 31, a number of enthusiastic participants will walk around Lake Kashagawigamog to raise money for the third world. Known as the Walk For Water, the event now in its third year, is held by the Help A Village Effort (HAVE), a local, non-profit organization.

Last year's walk raised $7,000. However, organizer Eric Lilius of Haliburton, said he hopes to raise $10,000 this year. After it is matched on a one-for-one basis by the Canadian International Development Agency, the money will pay for the boring of water wells in east-central India.

Some of the wells are 200 feet deep and cost $1,000 to bore. Pumps will also be provided and money for them will be raised at a concert to be held by HAVE this fall. The organization is also building a two and a half mile long water pipeline in the Himalayas.

The route is a 20 kilometre round trip and will begin at 8 a.m. at Rotary Park Beach in Haliburton village. Rides will be provided back to the beach for those not wishing to walk the full route. There will also be a ferry crossing on Lake Kashagawigamog as part of the walk.

The money raised will depend on the number of sponsors each walker can sign up. Sponsorship forms can still be obtained at The Times and Gambell's Autos and Antiques in Minden, Re/Max in Minden and Haliburton and at Halco and The Haliburton County Echo in Haliburton.

HHSS athletes claim third title

Call it a hattrick.

For the third year in a row, the track team from Haliburton Highlands Secondary School has captured the COSSA 'A' school championship. The team amassed 94 points for the first place finish in the meet held at Trent University in Peterborough, Thursday.

Twelve members of the HHSS team now advance to the Eastern Regional Championships to be held at Queen's University in Kingston.

The top five competitors from the Eastern Regional Championships will go on to fight it out at the Ontario Championships being held at the Terry Fox Centre in Ottawa June 6.

The following athletes will represent HHSS at the Eastern Regionals:

Midget girls

Jody McKnight - javelin (4th).

Junior girls

Lesley Tashlin - 80 m. hurdles (1st); Terri Legge - discus (5th).

Senior girls

Miriam Smith - discus (1st).

Junior boys

Brad Archer - discus (1st), shot put (5th); Dan Johnson - shot put (1st); Ron Perrin - javelin (2nd); John Vanderhorst - 400 m (5th), 1600 m relay (2nd); Ted Paish - 1500 m (5th), 1600 m relay (2nd).

Senior boys

Alex Little - 1500 m (2nd), 800 m (4th), 1600 m relay (2nd); Trevor Powers - 110 m hurdles (4th); Craig Burk - 1600 m relay (2nd).

Thefts increase

The Minden Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police is reporting an increase in the number of thefts due to the growth in the summer population here.

Among the items stolen in the week of May 19 - 25 were an all-terrain vehicle, a minivan, two canoes, a small aluminum boat with motor and a paddle boat.

The authorities advise all residents to secure their property with padlocks and chains.

There were six collisions between vehicles and large animals this week. Two of them occurred on Highway 118 in Anson township.

The potential for damage to your vehicle is an added reason to avoid collisions with animals. The repair bill for a collision with a deer can reach $1,500 or more.

Defoliation concerns residents

Many people in the County are expressing concern about trees in the area being defoliated by small green worms.

The insects, says Ministry of Natural Resources Forest Technician Bart Hilhorst, are cankerworms and to a lesser extent Bruce Spanworms. "Both these bugs are commonly called loopers because of their peculiar manner of moving about." They vary in colour from pale green to almost black, with lines running the length of the body.

The cankerworm, seen on the badly damaged leaf, is commonly called a looper because of its peculiar way of moving.

Mr. Hilhorst notes that in most cases infested trees will recover, and that the worms will only kill trees that are already diseased or unhealthy. Though repeated infestations - which aren't common - may kill even a healthy tree, the cankerworms usually only peak in population once every ten years, generally for two years at a time.

The effects of the cankerworm can look quite devastating. Often, they will remove the leaves not just from single trees but from whole patches of forest.

In Haliburton County, reported infestations are located in Minden, Dysart, Guilford and Harburn townships.

The worms, explained Mr. Hilhorst, are best controlled by environmental forces. These include stormy or cold weather, predators such as birds and other insects, parasites, and disease. Ornamental trees and shrubs can be sprayed against the insect effectively only in the spring when the leaves are about a quarter grown, with such insecticides as bacillus, carbaryl, malathion, methoxyclor and endosulfan.

Another method of protecting trees is to band the trunks in the fall and spring with a sticky material called tanglefoot. This will trap the female adult insects as they climb the tree to lay eggs.

Forestry technician Bart Hilhorst shows Audrey Ireland one of the caterpillars which has been eating the leaves on trees near her home.

Visiting brass quintet thrills school audience

A highly-acclaimed brass quintet comprised of five grade eight pupils entertained the students of Archie Stouffer School in Minden Friday.

Together with their teacher, Walter Barnes, the performers attend Winona Drive Senior Elementary School in Toronto.

The players in the quintet have distinguished themselves with a mainly classical repertoire. They performed Purcell's "Westminister Abbey" along with selections from Aida and J.S. Bach. They rounded off the performance, however, with a medley of three Newfoundland songs - I'se The B'y, We'll Rant and We'll Roar and She's Like The Swallow.

The quintet consists of two trumpets, one trombone, a french horn and a tuba. Between songs, Mr. Barnes offered the students at Archie Stouffer explanations of how the different instruments work.

The quintet has recently performed at Massey Hall in Toronto and has been invited by the Canadian Brass to play in the foyer of Roy Thompson Hall prior to a Canadian Brass concert.

They are one of three musical groups in Canada which have been selected to participate in the International Music Educators Conference in Innsbruck, Austria, this summer.

They are also appearing at Expo 86 in June and in England this July, possibly in Westminister Abbey itself.

The five boys will return to the Haliburton Highlands this summer, when they will assist Walter Barnes and Glen Carter in teaching a week-long brass quintet workshop for teens. Although this will be the inaugural year for the workshop, it comes as the product of a twelve-year-old friendship between Mr. Barnes and Mr. Carter.

We are very pleased to have Edna back home from the hospital. The Sunday evening was taken by Mr. and Mrs. Thompson.

Tuesday morning service was taken by Rev. Westhaver from Minden United Church. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Murray Davis came to entertain us with music and singing. It was really enjoyed by all present.

Wednesday Mrs. Knight had her daughter in for lunch and a visit. Thursday the Gospel Church ladies from West Guilford brought the goodies for the tea party. The sandwiches were fresh off the bat and were a real nice treat.

There were several people came at the same time to visit. I got the names of some of them. Mrs. Cecil Burke and Mrs. Earl Cooper, Mrs. Cooper Sr., and others, it is really nice to have visitors, we appreciate that a lot.

Thursday evening is for Bingo which a lot of folks enjoy. Friday morning Fun & Fitness in the auditorium in the afternoon a game of people, places and things, which is always a lot of fun.

Gordon Carr had his daughter Rella and her husband in to see him this afternoon.

Mrs. Wayne Cox, daughter Meagan and Robbie Titus called to see Edna Cowan.

Saturday had movies in the afternoon, in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Fearrey called and visited with the folks, also friends called on Mrs. Eastman. Some of the ladies spent two or more hours playing euchre, which is always a pleasant pastime.

Sunday morning our thoughts are with Angus Coulter as he received sad news of his daughter Frances in Calgary. She is in critical condition owing to a head on collision in her car.

I believe that is all for this week, Edna will be on the job next week.

PROCLAMATION

In recognition of their contribution in our County and by virtue of the authority vested in me, I hereby declare the Month of June as

SENIOR CITIZEN'S MONTH

Harry Davis,
Warden,
County of Haliburton.

Minden W.I.

The meeting of Minden Women's Institute was held on May 21 at the home of the Mervin Bunkers. Mrs. C. Lacey welcomed us all and after the usual opening there were 22 members and 2 guests present.

The Card Report from Mrs. Moore was read by Mrs. Coulter with 34 cards sent since last meeting. Collections for Card Fund and Pennies for Friendship were taken. Mrs. B. Harrington accepted the office of 2nd Vice President. All members of the Executive are to meet at the Library Cultural Centre May 28 to plan programmes.

Mrs. Lacey, District Director, gave a full report of District Annual and Minden Branch will host this meeting next May and that will also be our 80th Anniversary.

Our Annual Bus Trip will be to Cullen Gardens and Black Creek Village on July 22 so get your name to Annie Kernohan for a ticket.

A moment of silence in memory of Life Member Mrs. Fred Wright was followed by the Lord's Prayer. Next meeting is June 18 at the Jim Grant's and all to meet at the Post Office downtown and the time is 12:15. Please bring eating utensils, a chair, and lunch. A small gift was given by Mrs. Bunker to Mrs. L. Lemiex who is soon leaving our village.

After the adjournment, Mrs. Kernohan conducted a Spelling Bee with those remaining Jean Lacey and Bea Taylor receiving gifts. Then Verla auctioned the plants from the Roll Call. A social half hour followed with lunch and a cup of tea by the committee.

Jeanne Sears, P.R.O.

Yvonne Guida travelled to Toronto last Thursday to attend a special Appreciation Evening given for patrons who have worked to give the Canadian Opera Company a permanent home which will be the Joey and Toby Tanenbaum Opera Centre at 227 Front Street East.

Up until now, the members of the Company have been nomads performing wherever they could.

There were refreshments, followed by a concert given by members of the Opera Company, and finally a tour of the building, the stars' dressing rooms, rooms for members of the opera, rehearsal halls and rooms for the construction of scenery where backdrops for the production of Kismet, which has its preview performance on Saturday, June 21st at the Royal Alexander Theatre, were in progress.

Lofti Mansouri, General Director of the Canadian Opera Company, expressed his thanks to the gathering for their help and gave a special tribute to Joey and Toby Tanenbaum, for whom the building is named, for their contribution of one million dollars toward the reconstruction and renovation of the building.

During the evening Yvonne presented Mr. Mansouri with a copy of the Metroipolitan Opera News from 1966 which contained a page devoted to the young director at the Met called "The man from Iran", and a copy of a letter from Mario Lanza, a mutual friend.

Mr. Mansouri was obviously delighted and exclaimed "Oh my God, that was twenty years ago". Yvonne assured him he had not changed whereupon he replied, "only in those days I had hair." He is a most charming and articulate man. It was a very enjoyable evening.

The Climb

My mind and heart
Are on the stage
On which all manner of wonderful and exciting things
Take place.
The smell of the greacepaint, the roar of the crowd
Are an aphrodisiac to my blood.
When I was a child, as many mothers are wont to do, my mother
Wanted her daughter to be a star.
Mother dragged me to every conceivable audition
And I dutifully tagged along, my hair marcelled and carefully
Coiffed, in hand-made silk dress and Mary Janes.
And I did perform.
I remember very well, changing into costume, in a chilly alley
Behind Massey Hall and the Princess Theatre.
I had piano lessons, ballet lessons, voice lessons, art lessons,
And always in my mind was the music.
I liked Glen Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Benny Goodman, but
I loved the classics and Opera - oh Opera, the magic word.
I worked on stage sets, far into the night - I painted the artists, and dreamed.
First there were the artists, writers and poets
Then came the composers, Beethoven, Liszt, Brahms, Tchaikovsky, Puccini, Verdi, Rachmaninoff, Berlioz, Bach, Chopin, so many more
That we adore.
Then the ballet, Swan Lake, Romeo and Juliet, Petrouchka, with the stars. Nijinsky (who went mad) one of the greatest we ever had, Markova, Pavlova, Fontaine, Barashnikov, Nureyev, Gudonov, Bruhn - so very many.
Then the stars of Opera.
How well I remember Ponselle, Pons, Flagstad, Steber, Swarthout, Peters, Sills, Orroya, Horne, Sutherland, Forrester, Placido Domingo, Pavarroti, Caruso, Gigli, Lanza, Guida, Tucker, London Tibbett, Pinza, Edward Johnson, our own.
The star still shines as bright for me
It's there as it will always be
Like Alice in the rabbit hole
Its magic beckons, still a goal.
Everest is hell to climb
But never dull and there's still time.

Last Saturday the members and their guests were treated to a video show. The shorter videos were about the Canadian Navy. The longest-running one was "Vera Lynn" in concert. When Dame Vera started to sing there was not a dry eye among the veterans as memories of comrades, friends and places came flooding back to them.

On Sunday, a large number of Legionnaires and Army Cadets formed up behind the Legion Band and colour party and marched to the Haliburton United Church for the service there. This was the first public parade for the Cadets and they were a sharp-looking, snappy marching group.

Some of the Cadets will be travelling to Peterborough on June 7 for rifle drill at the armories. June 14 is the date for the Cadets' official inspection and on June 21 they will be in Ottawa. This looks like a very busy time for these young men and women.

215 eager seniors ready for games

by Bruce Armstrong

Haliburton Seniors are definitely supporting the Ontario Senior Games, as some 215 individuals have filed 405 registration forms at the Drop-in Centre for the 9 games involved in 1986.

Predictably, euchre is the biggest attraction with 92 enthusiasts vying for the top two team positions on June 5. 65 5-pin bowlers visit Carnarvon on May 28 while 55 golfers will disturb the PineStone turf on June 10 as 4 handicap groups determine the best of the two sexes. There will be 56 bridge and 48 cribbage players on June 2 and 6 respectively, and would believe 48 'shufflers' starting June 11, 24 lawn bowlers on May 30, 10 'dart-ers' May 27 and 7 pitchers of horseshoes on June 11.

There seems a dearth of information about the origin of Horseshoe pitching, although Encycleopedia America states briefly that it was developed from Quoits which originated in Europe during the 17th Century

Quoits are an 8 or 9 inch heavy metal ring around a 4 inch hole, and are tossed some 5 feet at a stake protruding only an inch above the ground. Horseshoe stakes show 18 inches and are 30 or 40 feet apart depending on age and sex of the contestants. One interesting fact for those of us who remember a 'leaner' or 'hubber' counting 2 points, is that it was a direct steal from Quoits where a 'hobber" does count 2.

In case anyone wonders how good horseshoe champions are - Elmer Hohl of Wellesley, Ont., pitched 86% 'ringers' in 35 games to win the World Championship singles in 1972.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank our family, relatives and very dear friends for the flowers, donations, and their many acts of kindness in the loss of our beloved mother, Beatrice Gilbank. Also thanks to the Minden U.C.W. for the lovely lunch they provided after the service. Special thanks to Rev. Westhaver for his message of kindness and the Gordon Monk Funeral Home.

Treasure her Lord in your garden of rest,
For when on Earth she was one of the best.

Jean & Harry Cowen
Bertha & Pete Burkitt

Especially at a time like this, I count my blessings. I thank God for family, relatives and friends who supported me with visits, cards, flowers, fruit, and inquiries, and for the skill and care of doctors and nurses. Special thanks to Reverend John James and his wife Barb, to Lochlin United Church, to Dr. Jeff Lodenquai and his staff, to Dr. Basil R. Baeta and the other doctors and nurses at Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay - and to the hospital itself for making the excellent care and facilities available to me. I am feeling much better - the prognosis is good. May God bless you all.
John P. (Jack) Hill

May we express our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbours for the floral tributes, charitable donations and all the kindness shown to us during the recent loss of our Mother. Special thanks to Rev. George Elliott, the ladies of the A.C.W. and the Gordon Monk Funeral Home.
Eileen Zonatean & family
June Johnston & family

The Minden Co-op Nursery Group want to thank Bill Kulas, manager of Minden Valu-mart, for all his generous donations and assistance in making our yard sale a success.
